

Website Design General Information

Quantum Rift Software provides all website development services at a “make an offer pricing”

All prices in this booklet are general idea prices. DO NOT make a counter offer on these, as only a quoted price will apply to your project. You must submit a project request to us, which will be evaluated (additional information requested if required), and you will receive a quote. You will then be able to accept this price, or make a counteroffer. We are under no obligation to accept your counteroffer, nor to offer the same services if we do accept your offer. Any changes will be submitted in writing for your approval prior to any work being done.

Depending on the project, we may require no upfront payment, upwards of 75% of the total cost of the project before we begin work. In most cases, a 25%-50% would be the normal upfront payment. Once the project is finished the remaining amount will be due. Payment installments may be offered.

New or Redesign of Existing Website

While it may seem like a website redesign would be easier than creating a new one, you'd be right and wrong. For many redesigns, only some text will remain the same, all code behind the pages can be completely redone. In essence, it's a new website. For this reason, we don't offer any redesign website discounts.

Likewise, we have no distinction between personal and business websites as far as price — however, personal websites rarely go above our minimum prices, whereas business websites have minimum prices as a starting point.

Simple Website (starting at $250):

A simple website is a few html (no PHP) pages, with graphics provided by you. We may also install pre-designed free modules (ex: phpBB) — but any setup of the modules would be up to you (ex: creating the forums).

Simple+ Website (starting at $500):

Simple+ Websites are a few html pages, some PHP scripts, a few graphics modified by us (with most by you). We'll also install pre-designed free modules (ex: phpBB) — any setup of the modules would be up to you (ex: creating the forums).

Power Website (starting at $850):

Power Websites are all pages contain PHP scripts, including database access. Graphics provided by you. We'll also install pre-designed free modules (ex: phpBB) — any setup of the modules would be up to you (ex: creating the forums).

Power+ Website (starting at $1250):

Power+ Website is the “Power Website”, however we'll do some minor setup and configuration of pre-designed installed modules. Also, we'll do more graphics modifications.

Corporate Website (starting at $2000):

Everything in the Power+ Website. We'll do basically everything required to get the site setup and installed, so all you'll have to do is tell others where to look for it.

What's Included?

All website development packages include at no additional cost:

- Submission to the major search engines
- Sitemap registration (and generation) for Google and Yahoo
- Zip file of all files used for the website (including graphic files)
- Free modifications of the pages until it's final (as based on the original agreement)
- Adding pre-existing & provided to us code (such as JavaScript) without modification
 - And we me no modification. If we have to alter even one letter, we'll charge!

Optional components to websites that will add a fee depending on package:

- PHP code
- JavaScript
- Security Measures (such as user-edited information, normally covered by PHP code)
- Image creation or image editing for the website (either appearance, or size)
- Webmaster support
- Phone support (billed at $10/hour, 1 hour min)
 - e-mail's free, phone takes up time and has to be scheduled

"Webmaster support" for an additional fee, approximately 10% of the total cost per month is available for all plans as well. This allows you to contact us for changes to the website, without incurring our then-current prices for modifications. We strongly encourage people to use this service if your website involves frequently changing content that requires human intervention to the files.

These lists are not inclusive.